Increasing Executive Productivity & Strategic Focus - Talk with John Wittry

San Francisco Bay Area Networking Group Discussion on Productivity

DENVER, CO, March 10, 2009 – The Bay Area Executive Development Network (BAEDN) hosts John Wittry, Partner and Executive Consultant with McGhee Productivity Solutions (McGhee), to discuss executive productivity and strategic focus on March 26, 2009. As part of the upcoming discussion, John will share lessons learned from working with executives and teams to help them accomplish their objectives, increase productivity, and improve work-life balance. He will provide information about integrating McGhee’s proven productivity methods and models with technologies such as Microsoft Office® Outlook®, SharePoint®, and OneNote®.

This event is an opportunity for BAEDN members to learn how John and others at McGhee have worked with Fortune 500 clients to provide immediate, measurable and sustained results. In this economic climate, results speak volumes. On average, McGhee consulting yields: a 19% reduction in time spent in meetings, 32% reduction in time spent doing e-mail, 33% less time spent looking for information, 60% reduction in interruptions, and a 78% reduction in the number of electronic messages being stored in the inbox. These savings have at times added up to more than 11 hours a week per person.

Periodically, the BAEDN group meets to share best practices through practitioners and thought leaders on topics that increase knowledge, capability and “know how” in the community. Established in 2005, BAEDN provides top-quality learning and networking events for leadership development professionals and executives across industries. Attendance for this event is limited. Professionals interested in becoming members and attending this event should RSVP to info@mcgheepro.com or call 1-866-400-9948.
