

Contact: Tabetha Applegate
Services Marketing Manager, McGhee Productivity Solutions
tabetha.applegate@mcgheepro.com
720.259.1799

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

McGhee Productivity Solutions Launches New Website

DENVER, CO, July 16, 2010 – McGhee Productivity Solutions (McGhee), international productivity consulting firm, is pleased to announce the launch of its newly updated website. The new website better reflects McGhee’s mission to help Fortune 500 organizations execute strategies and improve productivity to achieve critical business results and improve work/life balance for employees. It provides visitors with a more comprehensive overview of the firm's philosophy, services, and client results including current news and events, articles, product updates, and more. The website is tailored to serve existing Fortune 500 clients and provide valuable advice and practical tips for entrepreneurial businesses as well.

Visitors to the website will find the new design inviting and easier to navigate and the content more informative, complete with video overviews, free trial software, free webcasts, and loads of helpful information for those who are seeking improvements in performance management. Integrated throughout are the firm’s core values – alignment, focus, integrity, and accountability. McGhee’s Objective Accountability Program embodies these values and is a featured service on the new website. The program empowers organizations with a process to translate their vision and mid-term goals into annual strategic plans that cascade throughout all levels of the organization. “Our focus is to help our clients implement sustainable models to drive execution and performance at the individual, team, and organizational levels. We are very proud of the results we are achieving for industry-leading companies and the new website reflects this success and future innovations to come,” says McGhee CEO, Sally McGhee.

Take a moment to view the new and improved website at www.mcgheepro.com.

###

McGhee Productivity Solutions, Inc. (McGhee) provides consulting services, tools, and education to increase performance and work/life balance. Based in Denver, CO, McGhee integrates its proven methods and protocols with Microsoft technology to deliver innovative action-management strategies to individuals, teams, and organizations worldwide. From the boardroom to the knowledge worker, the McGhee approach drives accountability, maximizes technology investments, and improves job satisfaction to help organizations create a true culture of productivity. McGhee is in the process of becoming a Certified Woman-Owned Business www.mcgheepro.com.